"... the fire of Freddie King, the instinct of Jimmy Page and the soul of Eric Clapton"
Classic Rock Magazine

UK based guitar maestro Stephen Dale Petit continues his campaign to take his electrifying guitar playing to the masses with the release of A Better Answer, his second single from the 2008 album Guitararama. The single is accompanied by a highly controversial video featuring current political & economic tensions (just put the enclosed CD in your computer to view the video).

"With a lyric like A Better Answer I didn't want to get stuck into protest song clichés' says Petit.

'Whether it's wall-to-wall CCTV, C-Charge zones that are imposed by dictat or supposed green taxes that are really taxes of opportunity, I am astonished that there is so little active dissent. It seems like everybody's asleep, so I used my emotional reaction to the situation to write the track. The song tumbled out very quickly starting from a John Lee Hooker vibe. To finish the lyric I invited two national newspaper journalists to work on the third verse with me."

Petit's recording of his album Guitararama was financed entirely by busking. The first pressing (initially only available on the Underground) went on to achieve "collectors item" status.

Now the re-packaged version with extra tracks & the new single A Better Answer is released through Universal and continues to receive excellent reviews with recent appraisals in music publications Classic Rock, Rock N Reel & Blues In Britain.

Petit is currently in the midst of a 30 date UK tour promoting his album as well as lecturing at various colleges on the history of UK music & its blues roots, with a full audio/visual presentation & guitar performances going right back to African Slavery, the Mississippi Delta & the 60s UK Blues Boom coming right through to modern artists like Amy Winehouse & The White Stripes.
