"Certain to be a big uplifting club banger"
Lady Duracell

Surrey based DJs/Producers & brothers John & Robert Dale AKA the Dale Brothers have teamed up with Croydon resident DJ Devious Dave of the GateCrasher owned Hubb nightclub to release Gonna Be There featuring the vocal talents of Anya. The release combines Progressive House with a Trance/Electro feel and was inspired by the Kiss FM's Steve Smart's DJ sets. The track has already been getting a great response on the dance floor & is a real hit with the ladies.

Last year was a great year for the Dale Brothers as they had the opportunity to work with lead singer & producer One AKA Andrew Tumi from Superfly and are currently working with 70s disco legend Lenny Zakatek from Gonzalez & are very excited about the future. "We've recently spent time away from playing out and set up our own recording facility; Dale Studios, where we've been busy writing, producing and remixing various tracks. "Our musical tastes are very varied but we have a real passion for House/Club music when it comes to producing"

Gonna be there

The Dale Brothers are no strangers to the Dance Music/Clubbing scene as they've been kicking up a storm since their "That's How I'm Living" parties at the Ministry Of Sound and their DJ sets for Slinky, The Cross and many other nights.

The duo then formed their own record label Stussnics with long time friend & fellow Slinky resident DJ Matt Casser. The first release on the label was Matthew 16, a collaboration with engineer/producer Andrew Chatterly that went out under the name Dale & Chasser. The track was soon picked up by Slinky Music & was championed by Alex P, Brandon Block & Graham Gold. Next they found themselves working with various artists including Adam & The Ants for who they remixed the track Dog Eat Dog for Sony Music.
