Following the release of the debut Cosmic Mood, which received support from BBC 6 Music and others, Belgian electronica artist Oshino returns with a new album Journey. A 12-track body of work that twists and turns through a treasure-trove of inspired landscapes.

Born in Liege and having studied at the Academy of Beaux-Arts in Antwerp, Bryan Beckers AKA Oshino has taken inspiration from many genres ranging from Bach to IDM duo Autechre & leftfield act Flying Lotus.

From this background, Oshino has developed his own sound through experimentation with electronic soundscapes and audio sampling. Taking inspiration from the street and the visual art that surrounds him.

After his debut album Cosmic Mood, Oshino has chosen to produce a more varied sound as can be heard on this album.

Key tracks include: Lullabies with its down-tempo/trip-hop feel and quirky electro-bass sound; Stelf with its low-end beat and understated vocal tinges; then Low – a filmic groove with a haunting harmonica part that evolves into a full dreamlike melancholic arrangement.

Other tracks of note on the album include Bedtime, with its Massive Attack/Tricky beat, followed by Like a Window with its sampled atmospherics, constantly twisting and turning in different directions to keep the listener on their toes.

Further on is the track Sylenth, with a Kraftwerk-esque legato line that floats over a chopped up beat with sampled breaths and other vocal sources.

The closing track Obsidienne opens with dissonant chords before developing into a hypnotic groove featuring heavy compression and sidechain FX.

Oshino is currently planning various live events, which include an Ominim Records night later this year featuring other artists on the label. Please check the website for more info.
