'A simply incredible songwriter'
Thomas Coxhead – BBC Radio 1

Having toured around Europe, Australia, South America and the USA in recent years performing songs from his previous two EPs, singer-songwriter Antonio Lulic returns with his new release Son - a 5-track EP that reflects his journey around the world as a solo performer.

Antonio has gained much experience with live performances during his worldwide travels, including supporting Ed Sheeran in the UK and at his sold out New York headline show. However, Antonio also succeeds in captivating an attentive audience wherever he finds himself playing, which ranges from small intimate stages to huge theatres.

Born in Sunderland, the North East of England, and son to a South American political exile, social awareness has always been key to Antonio's songwriting. Although he draws the majority of inspiration from his family roots, artists ranging from Ani DiFranco to Bruce Springsteen have also played a prominent role.

Tracks from the Son EP are both passionate and heartfelt, dealing with issues encountered by many young people growing up in modern times.

The EP's opening track Beckoning Drum speaks of how adolescents cope in adjusting their outlook of the world as they enter adulthood. Finding we often have to face the harder edges of modern life. In contrast to this, second track The City of Austin, Texas harks back to a personal experience of Antonio's. A story of love lost in an unfamiliar City whilst the full force of nature throws itself at you. Twenty Twelve and Drunk & Lonely both touch on searching for stability and understanding whilst the closing track When I Can't reminds us of how 'life is what happens whilst making plans', while gently dealing with loved ones no longer with us.

Antonio's previous EP's Becomes Unstoppable & Never Tonight have proven popular on iTunes, a success that is still ongoing and to celebrate the release of Son, Antonio will be playing the We Love Spring event at St Giles in the Field, Soho, central London.
